

Vonda Martin

What's Your Superpower?

- How to figure out what one thing separates you from 99.99% of all humanity?
- Cultivation of the one core competency that creates value and meaning in your life.
- Understanding the power you have and using it for good.

It is not enough to identify your core competency. The real question that needs to be answered is what unique ability of yours is that core competency built on and how will you use that ability to create value and meaning in your life and the lives of those you interact with; that's your superpower.